Ipswich Film Society (IFS) has won two top awards at the Film Society of the Year Awards 2006. Anthony Minghella, director of Cold Mountain (2003), The English Patient (1996) and Truly, Madly, Deeply (1991), presented the British Federation of Film Societies awards to Jean Hill, the IFS Secretary, at London's National Film Theatre. The main award was for the Best Web Site, the other was the BFFS's Special 60th Anniversary Award. The IFS, a registered charity in its 71st year, is the second oldest film society in the country.
